The following is a letter sent by HP to HP shareowners.

February 11, 2002

Dear HP Shareowner:

As an owner of Hewlett-Packard, you have a unique opportunity to help decide the future direction of your company. We urge you to sign, date and return your WHITE proxy card to vote FOR the merger with Compaq Computer Corporation and to secure a stronger, more profitable future for HP.

VOTE FOR INCREASING THE VALUE OF YOUR HP SHARES

Your vote FOR the merger is a vote FOR market leadership. A vote FOR stronger product lines. A vote FOR more focus on innovation and R&D. A vote FOR improved profitability and stronger cash flow. A vote FOR growth. A vote FOR greater opportunities for employees. Most importantly, it is a vote FOR value.

In fact, the cost savings created by the merger with Compaq have a net present value of $5 to $9 for each HP share.

VOTE FOR MARKET LEADERSHIP IN THE INDUSTRY FASTEST-GROWING SEGMENTS

Our industry is transforming, driven by a new wave of technology advances, changing customer requirements and increased competition. HP has a clear choice: lead the transformation and consolidation of our industry or be overtaken by it. Merging with Compaq lets us lead.

Servers: Compaq and HP have highly complementary strengths. While HP is today a leader in Unix servers, a market growing at 5-7% a year, the new HP also will be #1 in Windows servers, a market growing at more than 20%, and #1 in Linux servers, a market growing at more than 30%. Customers want freedom of choice and demand all three operating systems for price performance, flexibility and reduced time to market.

Storage: Storage is a rapidly growing and evolving market. HP has powerful assets in the high-end storage category, but not enough to lead. With Compaq, we immediately become #1 in enterprise storage and the clear leader in storage-area networks, the fastest-growing segment of the storage market.

High-performance computing: Compaq is #1 in high-performance technical computing and fault-tolerant computing. With Himalaya, Compaq's fault-tolerant computing systems, and HP's own super-fast Superdome, we will lead in this highly profitable high-end systems market. We will also gain access to new customers and markets where high-performance, fault-tolerant computing is vital, such as the Department of Defense and the world's largest stock exchanges.

Services: With Compaq, we double our service and support capacity in mission-critical infrastructure design, outsourcing and support. Support is an especially steady and profitable business. It's like the printing supplies business—more is better.

VOTE FOR A MORE COMPETITIVE PC BUSINESS

Personal computers are an important part of our overall portfolio. Today, HP's consumer retail PC business is successful and profitable, but we are behind in commercial PCs and we have made inadequate progress building a direct distribution capability. Where HP does 15% of its commercial business through the direct channel in the U.S., Compaq does 60%. Where HP achieves 25 inventory turns each year, Compaq achieves 62. By combining HP's successful retail model with Compaq's successful commercial model we can build a profitable, cash-generating business and achieve more together, much faster, than either company could on its own.

VOTE FOR STRENGTHENING HP LEAD IN IMAGING AND PRINTING

For years, our imaging and printing business has accounted for too much of HP's overall profitability. We must invest in imaging and printing to continue to lead. Continued growth in imaging and printing means creating new categories such as digital publishing and digital imaging. These growth opportunities are greatly enhanced by our interrelated capabilities in computing, storage, servers and network management. Making our PC and enterprise computing businesses much more profitable, improves our ability to invest more in the future of imaging and printing.

VOTE FOR MORE CUSTOMERS, MORE INNOVATION, MORE PROFIT AND MORE CASH

By merging with Compaq, we will double the size of our sales force to 15,000, increase our R&D budget to more than $4 billion a year, and add important capabilities to HP Labs. And, with well over 60% of our revenues coming from outside the US, we will become the #1 player in dozens of countries around the world.

With expected cost savings of at least $2.5 billion per year, we will materially improve the profitability of all of HP's businesses. By 2003, we expect the profit margin of our enterprise business to reach 9% (up from 3% in 2001), and our services business to reach operating margins of 14% (up from 5% in 2001). We also expect the PC business to move decisively into the black with operating margins swinging to positive 3% from -4% in 2001, more than returning its cost of capital and generating substantial cash flow.

We expect these benefits to generate $1.5 billion of cash flow per quarter, net of capital expenditures by 2004.

Importantly, by improving our profitability we will be able to preserve jobs, continue to fund R&D and innovation, and maintain our long-standing commitment to investment in the communities in which we live and work.

VOTE FOR THE PEOPLE OF HP

Our employees are our greatest assets. Our track record of maintaining profitability throughout 2001 and recent positive earnings announcements prove what our people can accomplish. The people of HP want to build on our legacy, not rest on it. We are executing and will continue to do so. The people of HP deserve the opportunities that growth, leadership and improved profitability will make possible.

We aren't distracted by the merger or the challenge of integration. And our customers aren't defecting. A dedicated integration team of more than 450 people, led by experienced managers, has been working around the clock to make sure that we learn the lessons of past mergers and make the right decisions for the new company.

We are addressing the critical factors for successful merger execution defining governance for the new company, ensuring an unyielding focus on customers, developing clear product roadmaps, and preparing ourselves for Day One across every level of the company. We are building business plans to ensure we can meet or exceed shareowners' expectations.

HP is a strong company, a company capable of making this pragmatic and decisive move to position us for leadership and secure our future. This is a choice between taking the hill and charging ahead or retreating and falling behind. This is a choice between embracing the future of our industry or attempting in vain to preserve the status quo.

VOTE FOR YOUR BOARD AND MANAGEMENT TEAM

This merger represents the collective judgment of eight members of your Board of Directors, experienced business and technology industry leaders, who, together with the HP management team, have spent the last 2 1/2 years evaluating the best strategic move for HP. Your Board's collective experience includes:

Phil Condit, the CEO of Boeing, has managed Boeing's acquisitions of McDonnell Douglas, Hughes space division and Rockwell's defense and aerospace business moves that transformed the aerospace industry.

Sam Ginn, former chairman of Vodafone, managed the merger of Air Touch and Vodafone and the spin-off of Pacific Telesis from AT&T.

Dick Hackborn is an HP veteran who worked alongside our co-founders Bill Hewlett and Dave Packard for 30-years and built HP's imaging and printing business.

Pattie Dunn, CEO of Barclays Global Investors, oversees the management of $800 billion worth of investor assets.

Jay Keyworth, Chairman and Senior Fellow of the Progress and Freedom Foundation, and former director of the White House Office of Science and Technology, was a long-time friend and personal advisor to Dave Packard.

Bob Knowling, Chairman and CEO of Internet Access Technologies, played a central role in transforming Ameritech and helping to manage its acquisition of GE Information Services.

Together, we debated the hard questions. We looked at all the alternatives. And we unanimously concluded that merging with Compaq is the single best way to create shareowner value and return HP to industry leadership.

THE OPPOSITION OFFERS NO PLAN

We simply do not understand why Walter Hewlett opposes this carefully considered merger. He has no plan to address the challenges and opportunities that HP faces. He presents no alternative. He is just saying no. As Mr. Hewlett tries to convince others to say no, his platform mischaracterizes the facts and the process by which HP's board came to this decision.

If Walter prevails, your board would face the same set of choices, the same set of challenges and the same set of alternatives we have already considered, debated and rejected. In this rapidly changing IT market, we cannot afford to lose this opportunity nor do we have the luxury of time to start over.

Vote FOR protecting and growing the value of your HP investment. Please sign, date and return the enclosed WHITE proxy card today. We appreciate your support.

Sincerely,

MEMBERS OF HEWLETT-PACKARD'S BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Philip M. Condit

Richard A. Hackborn

Patricia C. Dunn

George A. Keyworth II
