Kratos Reports Full Year and Fourth Quarter Fiscal 2012 Financial Results

Kratos Affirms Previously Issued Fiscal 2013 Guidance for Adjusted Free Cash Flow and Provides Fiscal Year 2013 Revenue and Adjusted EBITDA Guidance

Reports Non-Cash Goodwill Impairment Charge Primarily Related To Legacy Services Businesses

SAN DIEGO, CA, March 12, 2013 – Kratos Defense & Security Solutions, Inc. (Nasdaq:KTOS), a leading National Security Solutions provider, today reported fiscal year 2012 revenues of $969.2 million, an increase of 36 percent over fiscal year 2011. Kratos also reported for fiscal 2012 Adjusted EBITDA of $115.4 million or 11.9 percent of revenue, Adjusted Cash Flow From Continuing Operations of $57.7 million and Adjusted Free Cash Flow of $41.1 million. For the fourth quarter ended December 30, 2012, Kratos reported revenues of $263.6 million and Adjusted EBITDA of $31.6 million or 12 percent of revenue and Adjusted Free Cash Flow of $14.9 million.

For the fourth quarter, Kratos generated a book-to-bill ratio of 1.1 to 1.0, representing the third sequential fiscal quarter in a row that Kratos' book-to-bill performance has exceeded 1.0 to 1.0. At fiscal year-end December 30, 2012, Kratos reported total backlog of $1.3 billion and a qualified bid and proposal pipeline of $4.2 billion. Importantly, Kratos does not include in its backlog, book-to-bill ratio or bid and proposal pipeline any amounts expected from Multiple Award Contracts (MAC's), Indefinite Delivery Indefinite Quantity contracts (IDIQ's) or Government Wide Acquisition Contracts (GWAC's) unless associated funded Task Orders have been received.

Key contracts recently awarded to Kratos include:

- Kratos was successful in winning the re-compete on one of the Company's largest contracts, in the satellite communications C2 area, for an additional six years, assuming all contract options are exercised.
- One of Kratos' five largest customers awarded Kratos a 2013 aerial drone production award, and the customer indicated it intends to award Kratos five years of additional production on a sole source basis.
- Two of Kratos' top ten customers awarded Kratos continued full rate production for 2013 of specialized electronic products in support of certain strategic Electronic Warfare and Missile System related programs.
- Earlier in 2012, another Kratos top ten customer exercised a $50 million option on a $100 million Ballistic Missile Defense and Hypersonic vehicle focused Kratos contract.

For the full year and fourth quarter ended December 30, 2012, Pro forma EPS from continuing operations was $0.53 and $0.15, respectively.

Kratos' fourth quarter results include important contributions from its unmanned aerial drone, aerial target, aerial systems, ballistic missile defense, electronic warfare and products, satellite communications, cyber security, C5ISR and training product areas, and Kratos' critical infrastructure security business. During the fourth quarter and throughout 2012, Kratos also experienced continued contraction in its traditional government information technology and services business, which now represent approximately ten percent of Kratos' overall consolidated revenues.

Approximately 65 percent of Kratos' business is focused on providing or supporting specialty products for strategic National Security programs. An additional approximate 25 percent of Kratos' business is focused on providing critical infrastructure security, public safety and cyber security related products and solutions for certain of our country's most strategic and important assets. Approximately 30 percent of Kratos' overall business is funded by commercial or international security focused customers, and is not impacted by U.S. Federal Budgets.

Kratos is affirming its previously communicated Adjusted Free Cash Flow guidance for full fiscal year 2013 of $50 million. Kratos is providing full fiscal year 2013 revenue guidance of $950 million to $1 billion, and Adjusted EBITDA guidance of $115 million to $125 million, respectively. Kratos' 2013 financial guidance is being provided in an extremely uncertain U.S. Federal Government budgetary environment, including Federal debt ceiling discussions, an existing six-month Continuing Resolution Authorization, which expires March 27, 2013, no Fiscal 2013 DoD budget currently being in place, a delayed Fiscal 2014 DoD budget request, and a potential for an extended Sequestration or similar significant Federal budgetary reduction scenario. The potential impact of an extended Sequestration event, as currently written with an approximate 10 percent across the budget line item reduction, has not been assumed in Kratos' guidance. Kratos' 2013 guidance does assume that the Pentagon will ultimately be provided the discretion to protect its priority programs and initiatives that support the new Defense Strategy and the Strategic Pivot. Kratos currently expects that the Company's first and second quarter fiscal 2013 revenues will be in the range of $235 to $245 million, and that the Company's third and fourth quarter fiscal 2013 revenues will be in the range of $240 to $255 million. The Company's currently expects adjusted EBITDA margins of approximately 11% to 12% in the first half of fiscal year 2013, and approximately 12% to 13% in the second half of fiscal 2013. The forecasted increased revenues and Adjusted EBITDA for the second half of fiscal 2013 is primarily due to expected U.S. Federal Government funding flows around the September 30 Federal Government fiscal year end and expected growth in Kratos' critical infrastructure security business. Kratos currently expects its second, third and fourth fiscal quarters of 2013 cash receipts to be stronger than the first quarter, due primarily to the expected collection of significant contract milestone payments in those periods, with the first quarter being approximately Adjusted Free Cash Flow neutral. Additionally, in 2013 Kratos will make the bi-annual interest payments on its Senior Secured Notes in the second and fourth quarters.

Eric DeMarco, Kratos' President & CEO said, "We closed out 2012 positioned well for 2013, generating a 1.1 to 1.0 book-to-bill ratio and $41 million of Adjusted Free Cash Flow for the year, giving us confidence in our 2013 Adjusted Free Cash Flow target of $50 million. As we begin 2013, we believe that Kratos is a uniquely differentiated specialty product and solutions business, focused on strategic mission critical National Security programs, platforms and initiatives which we believe will remain funding priorities for our country. We also believe that the current and expected future budgetary environment will provide companies like Kratos the opportunity to demonstrate our ability to offer cost saving innovations and deliver leading edge technology and products that address our customer's mission and are affordable. Our plan for 2013 is to remain laser focused on operational excellence, cash flow generation and the integration of the businesses we acquired in 2012, including CEI, which has performed outstandingly well as we originally expected. We will continue our ongoing facilities and back office consolidation and cost reduction initiatives, reducing non-critical and duplicative G&A and overhead, and focus our IR&D investments in areas where we see growth opportunities. Also importantly, in 2013 we expect Kratos' critical infrastructure security and public safety business to recover from the work stoppage and delays we experienced in the fourth quarter of 2012 as a result of Hurricane Sandy, and for this business to continue an organic growth trajectory in the second half of 2013."

Kratos also reported that in connection with the preparation of Kratos' fiscal year ended and fourth quarter financial statements, the Company conducted a test of its goodwill as of December 30, 2012, in accordance with Accounting Standards Codification Topic 350. As a result of this goodwill test, and due primarily to U.S. Defense industry conditions, related equity market conditions, and the Company's equity valuation, all of which have been adversely impacted by the threat of a long term sequestration event, an existing six-month Continuing Resolution Authorization and overall U.S. Federal budgetary uncertainty, the Company recorded a non-cash goodwill and intangible asset impairment charge of $96.6 million. The goodwill and intangible asset charge is related primarily to previously acquired legacy services businesses, which the Company has deemphasized as part of its core strategy over the past several years, as Kratos builds a specialty product and technology based business. Additionally, the non-cash impairment charge is not related in any way to the operating performance or cash flows of the Company's recently acquired product and technology focused businesses. The impairment charge also has no impact on Kratos' business operations, cash balances, cash flow or debt agreements.

Management will discuss the financial results in a conference call beginning at 2:00 p.m. Pacific (5:00 p.m. Eastern) today. Analysts and institutional investors may participate in the conference call by dialing 866-393-0674, referencing the call by ID number 11523954. The general public may access the conference call by dialing (877) 344-3935 or on the day of the event by visiting www.kratosdefense.com for a simultaneous webcast. A replay of the webcast will be available on the Kratos web site approximately two hours after the conclusion of the conference call.

Note Regarding Use of Non-GAAP Financial Measures

This news release contains non-GAAP financial measures, including Adjusted Cash Flow From Operations (computed as Cash provided by operating activities from continuing operations excluding the impairment of goodwill and intangible assets, payment of acquisition related items), Adjusted Free Cash Flow (computed as Cash provided by operating activities from continuing operations excluding the impairment of goodwill and intangible assets, payment of acquisition related items less payments for capital expenditures), Pro Forma EPS (computed using net income excluding the impairment of goodwill and intangible assets, amortization of purchased intangibles, acquisition related items, and unused office space expense less the estimated tax cash payments), and Adjusted EBITDA (which excludes the impairment of goodwill and intangible assets, losses from discontinued operations, transaction and other acquisition related items, contract settlements, stock compensation expense and income from SWAP instruments, and the associated margin rates). Kratos believes this information is useful to investors because it provides a basis for measuring the Company's available capital resources, the actual and forecasted operating performance of the Company's business and the Company's cash flow, excluding extraordinary items and non-cash items that would normally be included in the most directly comparable measures calculated and presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. The Company's management uses these non-GAAP financial measures along with the most directly comparable GAAP financial measures in evaluating the Company's actual and forecasted operating performance, capital resources and cash flow. Non-GAAP financial measures should not be considered in isolation from, or as a substitute for, financial information presented in compliance with GAAP, and investors should carefully evaluate the Company's financial results calculated in accordance with GAAP and reconciliations to those financial statements. In addition, non-GAAP financial measures as reported by the Company may not be comparable to similarly titled amounts reported by other companies. As appropriate, the most directly comparable GAAP financial measures and information reconciling these non-GAAP financial measures to the Company's financial results prepared in accordance with GAAP are included in this news release.

Adjusted EBITDA as calculated by us may be calculated differently than EBITDA for other companies. We have provided Adjusted EBITDA because we believe it is a commonly used measure of financial performance in comparable companies and is provided to help investors evaluate companies on a consistent basis, as well as to enhance an understanding of our operating results. Adjusted EBITDA should not be construed as either an alternative to net income or as an indicator of our operating performance or an alternative to cash flows as a measure of liquidity. Please refer to the following table that reconciles GAAP net loss to Adjusted EBITDA:
