Item 1.01 Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement

On September 28, 2017, Seagate Technology plc (the “Company”) entered into an Equity Commitment Letter (“ECL”) with a consortium of investors led by Bain Capital Private Equity for the acquisition (the “Acquisition”) of Toshiba Memory Corporation (“TMC”).

The ECL contemplates that, upon the closing of the Acquisition, the Company or one of its subsidiaries would purchase up to JPY 139.5 billion (approximately USD 1.25 billion based on current exchange rates), of a newly issued non-convertible preferred equity security (the “Preferred Stock”) of K. K. Pangea, a Japanese company newly formed for the purposes of acquiring TMC (the “Issuer”). The Preferred Stock would bear dividends at a rate of 5% per annum, to be paid in kind, and would have a maturity date of eight years after the initial issuance, unless earlier redeemed (which redemption may occur at any time at the Issuer’s election, or upon the occurrence of certain specified events). The Preferred Stock would rank subordinate to any indebtedness of the Issuer, pari passu with any other non-convertible preferred stock of the Issuer and senior to all convertible preferred stock and common stock of the Issuer. The holders of such Preferred Stock, as a class, would have certain approval rights over significant actions by the Issuer.
