Item 8.01 Other Events

On May 4, 2011 Regency announced its accounting for its non-qualified deferred compensation plan (NQDCP) was being reviewed.

The Company maintains a NQDCP that allows select employees and directors to defer part or all of their salary, cash bonus, and vested restricted stock awards. All contributions to the participants' accounts vest immediately. In accordance with the terms of the NQDCP, all deferred salary, bonus and stock have been placed in a Rabbi trust. The assets in the Rabbi trust remain subject to the claims of creditors of the Company and are not the property of the participant. The NQDCP has 21 investment choices that mirror the choices of the Company's 401(k) and profit sharing plan, which includes mutual funds and the Regency Centers common stock fund.

In preparing its financial statements as of and for the three months ended March 31, 2011, the Company identified an error related to the accounting for its NQDCP. The Company determined that it did not properly account for the investment assets and the Company's common stock held in the Rabbi trust on the Consolidated Balance Sheets, as well as the realized and unrealized gains and losses within the consolidated statements of operations. The issue relates to mark-to-market accounting on stock awards that were deferred into the NQDCP. The Company is still reviewing the accounting treatment for the NQDCP and expects to recognize further non-cash adjustments to net income. The Company's net income is subject to change based upon the completion of its review; however, the Company does not anticipate any change to its FFO or Recurring FFO. The Company will file its Form 10-Q as soon as it has finalized its review.
