CEO Conversation

April 1, 2015

Talking Points for Larry Renfro, Tim Wicks and Catamaran CEO.

Larry:

As you heard on Monday, assuming shareholder and regulatory approvals are obtained, OptumRx is going to combine with Catamaran, a leading provider of pharmacy benefit management services and technology solutions.

This combination is good for health care – good for consumers, customers and employees. We expect to be able to further benefit clients and individuals through enhanced services and cost trend management driven by state-of-the-art technology and resources, greater efficiencies and scale.

And, in combining, we will be creating the third largest pharmacy services company.

When all is said and done, we believe we will create a differentiated, channel-agnostic delivery model which will provide health plans and individuals a broader portfolio of services and a deeper product offering while focusing on managing costs.

Catamaran CEO:

For those who might not be familiar with our organization, Catamaran is a leading provider of pharmacy benefit management services and technology. We offer retail pharmacy network management, mail service pharmacy, pharmacy claims management and specialty pharmacy services nationally.

To us, Optum is an organization that is modernizing the health care system. Helping to make the health care system work better for everyone is a call to action that speaks not only to me, but to the more than 7000 Catamaran employees I am representing here today.

When together, we believe Catamaran and OptumRx will have the talent, scale, resources and innovative spirit to build the most modern, effective and consumer-focused PBM in the history of health care.

Tim:

So for the past several years, the teams at OptumRx have been slowly building our reputation around execution excellence.

With the work we did on Fresh Start, the OptumRx team has earned the support of our leaders across the enterprise.

And so we find ourselves at this point in our history.

The combination of our two organizations will diversify OptumRx's customer and business mix while accelerating its technology leadership and flexible service offerings.

Optum's longstanding business relationship with Catamaran as a technology partner means we operate on the same adjudication platform, simplifying integration and giving us confidence the combined organizations will quickly become an innovative force moving the pharmacy care services marketplace forward.

Our companies share common values and a strong commitment to protecting and enhancing the health and wellness of the people we serve. We believe these fundamental similarities will help support a smooth and seamless integration of the two companies.

Larry:

As you may have seen, upon closing, Mark will serve as chief executive officer of OptumRx, and Tim Wicks, the current chief executive officer of OptumRx, will become president. Jeff Park, who currently serves Catamaran as executive vice president, Operations, will become the chief operating officer for OptumRx. Jeffrey Grosklags, currently the chief financial officer of OptumRx, will continue in that role.

I know that Tim, Mark and the rest of the collective leadership team of the combined organization will be working side-by-side to ensure a smooth transition, with no disruption to the service they each provide to the millions of people who rely on them for their maintenance or resolution to their current health care needs.

We will now transition from discussing the upcoming combination to the topics for today, which are brand and product.
