PRESENTATION

BILL HENDERSON - ASHLAND - DIRECTOR OF IR

Allow me now to review corporate developments. During the quarter our debt increased by $150 million, due in part to a $148 million income tax payment and approximate $40 million increase in normal working capital items, and no cash distribution from MAP.

Cash investments decreased by $34 million during the quarter, and at the end of the March quarter MAP had $560 million in distributable cash due Ashland. Lastly, our effective tax rate is currently estimated at 38.5% for the remainder of the year. At this time, Marvin Quin will make a few comments.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

JEFF ZEKAUSKAS - JP MORGAN - ANALYST

Can you give us an update on what is happening with the MAP transaction?

MARVIN QUIN - I - CFO

As I think we disclosed recently, we are in discussions with both Marathon and the IRS, and at this point in time we have nothing to announce.

JEFF ZEKAUSKAS - JP MORGAN - ANALYST

I remember that there was a hope that the deal would close by the end of June. What relevance does that date have, and is it now likely that the deal won't close at the end of June?

MARVIN QUIN - ASHLAND - CFO

Edgar Filing: ASHLAND INC - Form 425

Clearly, closing by the end of June would be a challenge at this point in time. Not impossible, but it's a challenge. I think the relevance of that date may be less than a lot of investors place on it. From our perspective, if we are able to negotiate a transaction that we think is favorable to our shareholders, we would be inclined to extend that date. If we are unable to, we would be -- it would just terminate.

It is not terribly relevant in the sense other than the sense that it is in the existing document, the original document. It is once again, what can we negotiate? If it is attractive we would be willing to extend it.

BILL HENDERSON - ASHLAND - DIRECTOR OF IR

And we would expect it to take approximately 60 days after some announcement to close the deal, approximately.

JEFF ZEKAUSKAS - JP MORGAN - ANALYST

60 days. Again, can you remind me as to the meaning of a tax efficient transaction?

MARVIN QUIN - ASHLAND - CFO

Yes, what we're talking about there is using the structure that was announced in March of 2004 in the Morris Trust. And we say tax efficient as opposed to nontaxable because I think we have disclosed that we were not able to get one of the tax rulings. And as a result, there would be a certain amount of taxes due related to contingent liabilities. And in addition, there would be taxes due related to our stock price now exceeding our basis of new Ashland.

JEFF ZEKAUSKAS - JP MORGAN - ANALYST

Lastly, has the - what is the IRS is feeling about the tax efficient transaction?

MARVIN QUIN - I - CFO

I really cannot talk about the IRS' views on matters. That is a confidential discussion between the IRS and ourselves and Marathon at this point.

JEFF ZEKAUSKAS - JP MORGAN - ANALYST

Did it have any view in the past that you have already said?

Edgar Filing: ASHLAND INC - Form 425

MARVIN QUIN - ASHLAND - CFO

I'm sorry?

JEFF ZEKAUSKAS - JP MORGAN - ANALYST

What was your previous public view on the tax -- on the IRS' view of the tax efficient transaction?

MARVIN QUIN - ASHLAND - CFO

As you may recall, there were a number of rulings which we requested, and we received all but one of those rulings. And that was the one related to contingent liabilities. And the IRS has stated that they will not provide that ruling.

JACK PASTERCHAK - BB&T - ANALYST

Second question, with regard to the Marathon and MAP transaction, given that the IRS did not give you the initial rulings on the transaction in its initial contemplation, and given that today's announcement between Valero and Premcor sets some sort of valuation bar mark-to-market, if you will, for these types of assets anyway, why -- in a sense, couldn't you guys just move on with sort of a newer negotiation, given that changed environment that has occurred in the industry in terms of performance and now valuation over the last year since this transaction was done? Since it was initially announced it kind of seems like we are a little stuck in the mud. It is that not a fair assessment?

GARY HEMINGER - MAP - PRESIDENT

I think it is a fair assessment. And I think as we disclosed earlier, we are looking at -- are discussing alternate transaction structures. So it is not just the original Morris Trust structured that has received our attention.

OPERATOR

Fred Leuffer of Bear Stearns.

GARY HEMINGER - MAP - PRESIDENT

That was a key part of that answer.

FRED LEUFFER - BEAR STEARNS - ANALYST

First, Bill, congratulations and thank you for all your help. You have done a fantastic job. I had two questions. First, Marvin, just a clarification. It sounds like regarding the MAP transaction, you are still in discussions with the IRS, meaning that you are still looking for some kind of tax-favored structured? Is that correct?

MARVIN QUIN - ASHLAND - CFO

That has been one of the options we have been pursuing.

OPERATOR

John Roberts of Buckingham Research.

JOHN ROBERTS - BUCKINGHAM RESEARCH - ANALYST

Sorry, Marvin, to keep asking you this differently. But is it fair to say that Ashland would not be inclined to extend the end of June deadline for the original price deal?

MARVIN QUIN - ASHLAND - CFO

I don't want to go into price. Let me put it in this way. Ashland has several alternatives. One is to continue its ownership. Two, if we don't reach agreement Marathon could call our interest. In the third scenario, we could enter into some type of an agreement. We are obviously not going to enter into an agreement that we think is less favorable than the other two options.

JOHN ROBERTS - BUCKINGHAM RESEARCH - ANALYST

You're not obligated to extend the June 30 deadline if you're unhappy with the deal?

MARVIN QUIN - ASHLAND - CFO

Yes.

JOHN ROBERTS - BUCKINGHAM RESEARCH - ANALYST

Again, Bill has done a great job but this seems to be made a peculiarly odd time to make that change, given all of the help everybody needs with the MAP transaction.

OPERATOR

Matt Warburton of UBS.

MATT WARBURTON - UBS - ANALYST

Bill, all the best for the future. Two quick questions, if I may. The tax burden that you said, 148 million, was that in relation to your taxable income that obviously hasn't been distributed on MAP? So I see you also borrowed some money from MAP during the quarter. And then I have a follow-on on MAP after that.

MARVIN QUIN - ASHLAND - CFO

The answer is yes. As an MLP -- LLP -- MAP is paying -- repaying (ph) income taxes on that income as it is recorded, not as paid.

MATT WARBURTON - UBS - ANALYST

Secondly, Marvin, you mentioned that you continue to talk to the IRS and they're looking for a tax favored structure. And it seems to me, given the duration and given what the IRS has said to you in the past, that a tax restructure is virtually impossible, from looking at it on the outside. To what degree if the IRS come back and say we are prepared to accept a partially taxed transaction, will Ashland then return -- stick to the guns of no restrictions on use of proceeds?

MARVIN QUIN - ASHLAND - CFO

We can't make a judgment without having specific facts available to make that judgment. The factors that are important to us are after-tax value, and it is certainly the most important. But also factors like financial flexibility and certainty of transaction would be important in that (technical difficulty) deliberation.

MATT WARBURTON - UBS - ANALYST

So essentially you could potentially see a case where the after-tax value was preserved or even increased, given what the commentators were saying in terms of the benchmark stage -- Premcor, Valero deal, that you would accept some sort of limitations on use of proceeds?

MARVIN QUIN - ASHLAND - CFO

Yes. It would depend on the overall -- what we thought the value of each alternative was.

Edgar Filing: ASHLAND INC - Form 425
