Magic Software Enterprises And Sun Wah Announce The Signing Of A Major Distribution Agreement in China

Beijing, CHINA - Monday, June 28th, 2004 - Magic Software Enterprises Ltd. (Nasdaq: MGIC), a leading provider of state-of-the-art business integration and development technology, and Sun Wah Group, a major conglomerate in Hong Kong and China, announced today the signing of a major distribution agreement for Magic Software products into the Chinese market

Sun Wah has a massive presence in China with branches throughout the country and has set up a team of professionals who will be marketing and supporting Magic Software products in the Chinese market.

I am delighted to sign the agreement with Magic Software, said Mr. Benjamin Ng, Managing Director of the SUN WAH Hi Tech Holdings. I believe that there is a huge potential for Magic's products in the Chinese market.

He added SUN WAH is very dominant in the Linux community in China and Magic's offerings in that market could enable us to attain substantial market share in that market.

Magic Software has taken a strategic decision to enter the Chinese market, said David Assia, Chairman & Founder of Magic Software, who visited China last week with a large hi tech delegation from Israel. The agreement with Sun Wah is a first serious step in that direction. We have always viewed the Asia Pacific region as a strategic market for Magic Software and we intend to replicate in China our success in the Japanese market.
