On September 19, 2008, Harbinger Capital Partners Master Fund I, Ltd. and Harbinger Capital Partners Special Situations Fund, L.P. issued a press release in connection with the special meeting of shareholders of Cleveland-Cliffs Inc, which is scheduled to be held on Friday, October 3, 2008, at 10:00 a.m. A copy of the September 19, 2008 press release is attached hereto as Exhibit I.

Exhibit I

Harbinger Urges Shareholders to Take Action at Cleveland-Cliffs Special Meeting

NEW YORK--(BUSINESS WIRE)--September 19, 2008. Harbinger Capital Partners® Funds, the largest shareholder of Cleveland-Cliffs Inc (NYSE: CLF), today sent the following letter to shareholders of Cleveland-Cliffs:

HARBINGER CAPITAL PARTNERS MASTER FUND I, LTD.

HARBINGER CAPITAL PARTNERS SPECIAL SITUATIONS FUND, L.P.

September 19, 2008

Dear Fellow Shareholder:

The October 3rd Cleveland-Cliffs special meeting is rapidly approaching. Once again, we are asking for your support now to authorize our acquisition under the Ohio control share acquisition statute of up to one-third of the voting shares of Cleveland-Cliffs. Please join us as we fight for the future of our shared investment and the interests of all shareholders.

The merger with Alpha Natural Resources is too much, too fast, and shows the urgent need for a strong, independent shareholder advocate that management cannot ignore.

We believe Cleveland-Cliffs is a company with tremendous potential. We do not want to see that potential squandered on a radical, transformative transaction that we believe destroys shareholder value and places the future of your company at substantial risk. According to the company's preliminary proxy statement/prospectus filed August 12, 2008, J.P. Morgan, the company's financial advisor, estimated the value creation per share to Cleveland-Cliffs shareholders in the Alpha transaction at only $1.85, assuming constant discount rates, or less than 1.66% of the company's share price at the time of announcement. The same filing discloses that Citigroup, Alpha's financial advisor, calculated that the transaction would be dilutive to Cleveland-Cliffs earnings per share by between negative 14-19% and negative 13-26% for 2009 and 2010, respectively.

When risk and reward are so out of proportion, shareholders need someone prepared to say "no" when "no" is the right answer.

Cleveland-Cliffs says it does not want Harbinger to exert control over the company and infringe on the rights of shareholders, yet the company has offered no evidence that Harbinger has ever sought to exert any such control. Indeed, the company acknowledged in its own proxy materials that Harbinger has not presented any demands or proposals to the company. The reality is that, given the range of statutory restrictions that limit our ability to enter into transactions with the company, we believe our greatest opportunity to achieve the most profitable return on our investment is to prompt and prod management toward transactions that benefit all shareholders.

Cleveland-Cliffs asks you to “preserve the power of your vote” and we cannot agree more. At a time when many companies are eliminating or placing time limits on poison pills and similar entrenchment tools, Cleveland-Cliffs remains subject to multiple layers of legal restrictions that insulate management against shareholders taking action. These range from the Ohio control share acquisition statute that requires Harbinger to obtain shareholder approval to increase our stake, to the two-third voting requirements that management has cited, to the Ohio business combination statute that drastically limits Harbinger’s ability to acquire the company or assist others in acquiring the company. In this time of tremendous market volatility, we believe Cleveland-Cliffs management should be supportive of investors that want to purchase additional shares, rather than preserving outdated legal restrictions to block shareholder action.

If management believes that supermajority voting places too much power in the hands of large shareholders, they can take action to remove that requirement.

Insulating management from shareholder action is not the answer.

Our interests are aligned with yours. We do not want to control Cleveland-Cliffs, but we do want to ensure that this company acts in the best interests of all shareholders. We understand that two of the proxy advisory firms have determined not to support our proposal. We urge all shareholders to make up their own minds, join with us, and help us fight for the cause of shareholder value.

We strongly encourage Cleveland-Cliffs shareholders to sign, date, and return the enclosed GREEN proxy card and the accompanying certificate of eligibility. If you have previously signed a white proxy card, you can revoke that vote by immediately signing, dating and mailing the enclosed GREEN proxy card and accompanying certificate of eligibility. Be sure to complete the certificate of eligibility to ensure that your vote is fully counted!
