Note 1- Basis of presentation and Organization

The accompanying unaudited consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Securities and Exchange Commission requirements for interim financial statements. Use of Estimates in the preparation of the financial statements

The preparation of the Company's financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in these financial statements and accompanying notes. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Item 2. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Special Note Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

This periodic report contains certain forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 with respect to the Plan of Operations provided below, including information regarding the Company's financial condition, results of operations, business strategies, operating efficiencies or synergies, competitive positions, growth opportunities, and the plans and objectives of management. The statements made as part of the Plan of Operations that are not historical facts are hereby identified as "forward-looking statements."

Critical Accounting Policies and Estimates

The preparation of financial statements and related disclosures in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the unaudited Financial Statements and accompanying notes. Management bases its estimates on historical experience and on various other assumptions that are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances. Actual results could differ from these estimates under different assumptions or conditions. The Company believes there have been no significant changes during the three month periods ended September 30, 2008, to the items disclosed as significant accounting policies since the Company's last audited financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2007.

The Company's accounting policies are more fully described in Note 1 of the consolidated financial statements. As discussed in Note 1, the preparation of financial statements and related disclosures in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions about the future events that affect the amounts reported in the consolidated financial statements and the accompanying notes. The Company believes that the following addresses the Company's most critical accounting policies.

We recognize revenue in accordance with Securities and Exchange Commission Staff Accounting Bulletin No. 104, "Revenue Recognition" ("SAB 104"). Under SAB 104, revenue is recognized at the point of passage to the customer of title and risk of loss, when there is persuasive evidence of an arrangement, the sales price is determinable, and collection of the resulting receivable is reasonably assured. We recognize revenue as services are provided. Revenues are reflected net of coupon discounts.

We account for income taxes in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 109, "Accounting for Income Taxes" ("SFAS No. 109"). Under SFAS No. 109, deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates in effect for the year in which the differences are expected to reverse. Deferred tax assets will be reflected on the balance sheet when it is determined that it is more likely than not that the asset will be realized. A valuation allowance has currently been recorded to reduce our deferred tax asset to $0.

Plan of Operations

We have established a web store presence and supplier relationship in the aftermarket SUV accessories marketplace. This presence was obtained through the purchase of the website and related business of Aftermarket Express, Inc. We hope to leverage this presence into additional aftermarket accessories product lines. Currently, our product line focuses on the SUV marketplace. As we look to expand with the capital obtained from our offering, we hope to be able to take the same concept and broaden it to the overall aftermarket accessory marketplace instead of the niche of SUV accessories.

To expand our concept, we will need to create a broader web presence and may set up additional “web stores” to focus on the different segments in the aftermarket accessories marketplace. Additionally, we will have to establish new supplier relationships to be able to offer a broader product line. We believe the aftermarket accessories marketplace can be served through an online presence. To this end, we purchased the website and related business of Aftermarket Express, Inc. Through this purchase, we were able to obtain an instant online presence and revenue stream. Although this revenue stream is currently not profitable, management believes with minor changes, the current operations can become profitable. This will require additional marketing efforts and better computer systems that can track customers and better target market to the customers. Since purchasing the business, we have implemented an outbound email follow up activity to better communicate with our existing customers. The business is wholly dependent on internet searches to locate our web site or from repeat customers. Management believes with a more aggressive marketing approach, our online presence can be expanded and sales can be increased.

Part of our overall objectives to increase sales will be to expand our product line and to implement targeted marketing campaigns for certain specific products. Our products are currently limited to SUV accessories. Management believes other car and truck accessory markets are available, particularly, those markets that are dominated by a younger consumer. Management believes the younger consumers are more likely to purchase automobile accessories over the internet and are more likely to work on their own vehicles. These markets would include the “Tuner” market and the emerging market for hybrid vehicles. We define the Tuner market as a market segment that consists of individuals who customize import sedans, such as Honda Accords, Toyota Celicas and similar cars by adding performance enhancing products to them along with accessories that change their appearance. The Tuner market is also referenced as the “sports compact” market. We believe this market has expanded in recent years and there are a number of websites catering to it. With SUV sales continuing to decline with higher gas prices, we believe it is prudent for us to expand into the car accessories marketplace. We believe that any automobile accessories market can be accessed with the same business model. Additionally, we believe the incremental cost of adding a broader product line will be small given the computer and distribution system can support a much broader product line. Management feels the only substantial cost of expanding our product line is the inventory carrying cost which should be limited given we have most of our suppliers drop ship directly from their warehouses to our customers.

Since our technology and systems are not product specific, we believe we can duplicate our model for use in retailing new product lines. With the exception of website development and maintenance, we do not feel our operating costs will increase substantially as we enter the new product lines. We are hopeful that with the proceeds of our offering we can purchase additional equipment as well as acquire additional software support to be able to expand our web presence. This will require additional marketing dollars to be able to increase our web based advertising to help drive business to our web sites. Some of our current suppliers, such as Alan Graham Motoring Accessories, Keystone Automotive Operations, Legacy Beyond Perfect Seat Covers, Lund International, Inc. and MacNeil Automotive Products Ltd. offer accessories for cars and we have notified them of our intention to expand our product offering. Additionally, we plan to seek relationships with car accessory suppliers to be able to start offering additional products. To this end, we have contacted several suppliers including Matrix Racing, Inc., J&A Auto Accessories, Import Tranz, LLC E&M Distributors, Inc. and New Level Motorsports about their ability to drop ship and product lines. We are limited in our finances to be able to expend the marketing dollars we would like. We will, however, try and devote as much available funds to additional marketing efforts as we have available.

Prior to our acquisition of the aftermarket accessories business, the management of Aftermarket Express, Inc. engaged in very little marketing or support activity and were able to generate sales by web searches, word of mouth and repeat customers. We are hopeful that with an increased focus from management and additional marketing dollars, we will be able to increase sales leading to profitable operations. This will require focusing more on the methods of attracting customers to a web site and will require placements with web search engines, appearances at auto shows and advertising in specialty magazines. We are limited on the amount of marketing we will be able to complete given current funding but are hopeful we will be able to grow our business and move into a cash flow positive position in upcoming quarters.

Results of Operations

We continued to lose money during the three months ended September 30, 2008, with a net loss of $38,705 compared to a loss of $21,312 for the three months ended September 30, 2007. For the nine months ended September 30, 2008, we had a net loss of $78,999 compared to a net loss for the nine months ended September 30, 2007, of $55,836. We had sales of $30,949 for the three months ended September 30, 2008 compared to sales of $75,362 for the three months ended September 30, 2007. We believe sales decreased due to the general economic conditions faced by consumers as the general economy faltered. Without additional revenue, we will continue to suffer losses as our sales are currently not high enough to cover our fixed expenses, particularly general and administrative which include our office expenses and the cost of one part time customer service representative. We expect our legal and professional fees, which include our audit and accounting fees, will continue for the foreseeable future and we expect them to remain at current levels.

Revenues were generated through our web site purchased in September 2006. We did not engage in any additional marketing or advertising as we focused on revising our web site and marketing plan. As a result of changes made to our product offerings and delays in increasing prices we had a net decrease in gross profits. We do not anticipate this to occur in the future as the product mix has been revised and prices increased. We have, however, experienced a decrease in sales as a result of delays in marketing. We anticipate sales to continue to be lower than last year until we secure additional funds to be able to expand our product mix to attract potential new customers. This is particularly important as the economy in general has slowed.

Since we are not a manufacturer of the products we sell and we buy from suppliers, our cost of goods sold is somewhat out of our hands and we have limited markup capabilities if we want to stay price competitive. On all products we carry, we perform a market analysis of the product and competing product prices both online and in available stores. This analysis can generally be performed online without much difficulty. Once a price point for a product is determined, we try and set the price at a competitive level, often matching competitor's prices or slightly reducing our price over a competitor if possible. Since we typically have no inventory carrying cost, we generally can be competitive on price point. Generally, our prices reflect a gross margin of an average of 35% to 40%. If a product is widely available at a price that forces us to sell it for less than a gross profit of 30%, we will still offer the product for sale but only if there is minimal customer service activity associated with the sale. As with most retail and online stores, we have to rely on higher sales volumes and keeping control of our other expenses to make a profit.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

As of September 30, 2008, we had a working capital of $30,435. Our working capital position improved as the result of raising $126,485 from the sale of our common stock. It is likely we will need to raise additional capital to cover ongoing losses until we are able to increase our sales. With over a 50% decline in sales for the last three months, we are trying to reduce expenses as we try and navigate the current economic downturn. Even with reducing expenses, we still face severe challenges with mounting losses and will need additional capital if we cannot reduce expenses sufficiently to cover losses.

Our primary source of liquidity in the past has been cash provided by debt instruments and operating activities. Our working capital needs over the next 12 months consist primarily of marketing, software and equipment purchases, debt repayment and administrative expenses. If our efforts to increase sales are not successful, we will have to obtain additional financing. Presently, we do not feel bank financing is feasible and believe we would have to rely on loans from existing stockholders and management or further equity offerings. At this time there are no commitments from any parties to provide further financing.

Off-Balance Sheet Arrangements

We have no off-balance sheet arrangements as of September 30, 2008.

Forward-looking Statements

The Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 (the “Act”) provides a safe harbor for forward-looking statements made by or on behalf of our Company. Our Company and our representatives may from time to time make written or oral statements that are “forward-looking,” including statements contained in this Quarterly Report and other filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission and in reports to our Company’s stockholders. Management believes that all statements that express expectations and projections with respect to future matters, as well as from developments beyond our Company’s control including changes in global economic conditions are forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Act. These statements are made on the basis of management’s views and assumptions, as of the time the statements are made, regarding future events and business performance. There can be no assurance, however, that management’s expectations will necessarily come to pass. Factors that may affect forward-looking statements include a wide range of factors that could materially affect future developments and performance, including the following:

Changes in Company-wide strategies, which may result in changes in the types or mix of businesses in which our Company is involved or chooses to invest; changes in U.S., global or regional economic conditions, changes in U.S. and global financial and equity markets, including significant interest rate fluctuations, which may impede our Company’s access to, or increase the cost of, external financing for our operations and investments; increased competitive pressures, both domestically and internationally, legal and regulatory developments, such as regulatory actions affecting environmental activities, the imposition by foreign countries of trade restrictions and changes in international tax laws or currency controls; adverse weather conditions or natural disasters, such as hurricanes and earthquakes, labor disputes, which may lead to increased costs or disruption of operations.

This list of factors that may affect future performance and the accuracy of forward-looking statements is illustrative, but by no means exhaustive. Accordingly, all forward-looking statements should be evaluated with the understanding of their inherent uncertainty.

Item 3. Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures About Market Risk.

NA-Smaller Reporting Company

Item 4T. Controls and Procedures.

Evaluation of Disclosure Controls and Procedures

Our management, with the participation of our President and CFO, evaluated the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and procedures as of the end of the period covered by this report. Based on that evaluation, our President and CFO concluded that our disclosure controls and procedures as of the end of the period covered by this report were effective such that the information required to be disclosed by us in reports filed under the Exchange Act is (i) recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in the SEC’s rules and forms and (ii) accumulated and communicated to our management, including our President and CFO, as appropriate to allow timely decisions regarding disclosure. A controls system cannot provide absolute assurance, however, that the objectives of the controls system are met, and no evaluation of controls can provide absolute assurance that all control issues and instances of fraud, if any, within a company have been detected.

Management's Report on Internal Control over Financial Reporting

Our management is responsible for establishing and maintaining adequate internal control over financial reporting (as defined in Rule 13a-15(f) under the Exchange Act). Our internal control over financial reporting is a process designed to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States.

Because of its inherent limitations, internal control over financial reporting may not prevent or detect misstatements. Therefore, even those systems determined to be effective can provide only reasonable assurance of achieving their control objectives.

Our management, with the participation of the President and CFO, evaluated the effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting as of September 30, 2008. Based on this evaluation, our management, with the participation of the President and CFO, concluded that, as of September 30, 2008, our internal control over financial reporting was effective. Given we have only one officer that serves as President and CFO, our controls are limited by the lack of personnel and segregation of duties. As we grow our business we will be actively looking at how to segregate our duties to provide better controls.

Changes in internal control over financial reporting

There have been no changes in internal control over financial reporting.
