On July 19, 2016, Marvell Technology Group Ltd. ( Marvell ) issued a press release reporting its financial results for the fourth fiscal quarter and fiscal year 2016, ended January 30, 2016, and updated financial results for the second and third quarters of fiscal 2016, ended August 1, 2015 and October 31, 2015, respectively. A copy of the press release is furnished herewith as Exhibit 99.1 and is incorporated by reference herein.

Marvell will conduct a conference call on Tuesday, July 19, 2016 at 1:45 p.m. Pacific Time to discuss results for the fourth quarter and full year fiscal 2016. Interested parties may join the conference call by dialing 1-844-647-5488 or 1-615-247-0258, pass-code 45077084. The call will be webcast by Thomson Reuters and can be accessed at the Marvell Investor Relations website at <http://investor.marvell.com/> with a replay available following the call until August 19, 2016.

Discussion of Non-GAAP Financial Measures

In addition to disclosing financial results calculated in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ( GAAP ), Marvell also reports non-GAAP financial measures. Pursuant to the requirements of Regulation G, Marvell has provided reconciliations with the press release of the non-GAAP financial measures to the most directly comparable GAAP financial measures included in the press release. Non-GAAP financial measures exclude the effect of share-based compensation expense, amortization and write-off of acquired intangible assets, acquisition-related costs, restructuring and other related charges, and certain one-time expenses and benefits, including, but not limited to, litigation settlements, that are driven primarily by discrete events that management does not consider to be directly related to Marvell's core operating performance.

Marvell believes that the presentation of non-GAAP financial measures provides important supplemental information to management and investors regarding financial and business trends relating to its financial condition and results of operations. While Marvell uses non-GAAP financial measures as a tool to enhance its understanding of certain aspects of its financial performance, Marvell does not consider these measures to be a substitute for, or superior to, the information provided by GAAP financial measures. Consistent with this approach, Marvell believes that disclosing non-GAAP financial measures to the readers of its financial statements provides such readers with useful supplemental data that, while not a substitute for GAAP financial measures, allows for greater transparency in the review of its financial and operational performance. Marvell has chosen to provide this information to investors to enable them to perform comparisons of operating results in a manner similar to how Marvell analyzes its operating results internally. Management also believes that these non-GAAP financial measures may be used to facilitate comparisons of Marvell's results with that of other companies in its industry.

Externally, management believes that investors may find Marvell's non-GAAP financial measures useful in their assessment of Marvell's operating performance and the valuation of Marvell. Internally, Marvell's non-GAAP financial measures are used in the following areas:

Management's determination of the achievement and measurement of certain performance-based equity awards (adjustments may vary from award to award);

Management's evaluation of Marvell's operating performance;

Management's establishment of internal operating budgets; and Management's performance comparisons with internal forecasts and targeted business models.

Non-GAAP financial measures are adjusted by the exclusion of the following items:

Share-based compensation. Share-based compensation relates primarily to employee stock options, restricted stock units and the employee stock purchase plan. Share-based compensation expense is a non-cash expense that is affected by changes in market forces, such as the price of Marvell's common shares, which is not within the control of management. In addition, the valuation of share-based compensation is highly subjective, and the expense recognized by Marvell may be significantly different than the expense recognized by other companies for similar equity awards, which makes it difficult to assess Marvell's results compared to its competitors. Accordingly, management excludes this item from its internal operating forecasts and models.

Amortization and write-off of acquired intangible assets. Purchased intangible assets relate primarily to existing and core technology, and customer relationships of acquired businesses. Management considers these charges non-cash in nature and unrelated to Marvell's core operating performance.

Acquisition-related costs. Acquisition-related costs primarily include the amortization of retention bonuses required by the terms of the acquisition. Management believes these charges are unrelated to the core operating activities for Marvell, and the frequency and variability in the nature of the charges can vary significantly from period to period. Excluding this data provides investors with a basis to compare Marvell's performance against the performance of other companies without this variability.

Restructuring and other related expenses. Restructuring and other related expenses include costs which qualify under U.S. GAAP as restructuring costs. Management regularly excludes such items from internal operating forecasts and models because they are not considered a core operating activity for Marvell and because the frequency and variability in the nature of the charges can vary significantly from period to period. Excluding this data provides investors with a basis to compare Marvell's performance against the performance of other companies without this variability.

Certain One-Time Expenses and Benefits. From time to time, Marvell has other costs/benefits that are not directly related to Marvell's ongoing or core business results, including, but not limited to, certain litigation settlements. Excluding this data provides investors with a basis to compare Marvell's performance against the performance of other companies without this variability.

The calculation of non-GAAP net income per share is adjusted for the following item:

Non-GAAP diluted net income per share is calculated by dividing non-GAAP net income by non-GAAP weighted average shares (diluted). For purposes of calculating non-GAAP diluted net income per share, the GAAP weighted average shares outstanding (diluted) is adjusted to exclude the potential benefits of share-based compensation expected to be incurred in future periods but not yet recognized in the financial statements. For GAAP purposes under the treasury stock method, this future share-based compensation is treated as proceeds assumed to be used to repurchase shares. Since Marvell's non-GAAP net income does not include share-based compensation, management believes the share-based compensation effect on diluted shares outstanding using the treasury stock method should similarly not be included in the calculation of non-GAAP diluted shares outstanding.

Non-GAAP financial measures should be considered supplemental to, and not as a substitute for, or superior to, financial measures calculated in accordance with GAAP. Non-GAAP financial measures have limitations in that they do not reflect all of the costs associated with the operations of Marvell's business as determined in accordance with GAAP. As a result, you should not consider these measures in isolation or as a substitute for analysis of Marvell's results as reported under GAAP. Marvell expects to continue to incur expenses similar to the non-GAAP adjustments described above, and exclusion of these items from Marvell's non-GAAP net income should not be construed as an inference that these costs are unusual, infrequent or non-recurring.
