Market Review (November 2005 - April 2006)

The following is a review of the Japanese equity market over the past six months:

Stocks on the TSE recorded gains in the six months ended April 30, 2006.

Edgar Filing: JAPAN EQUITY FUND INC - Form N-CSRS

Following a gain of 28.3% in the six months ended October 31, 2005, the TOPIX Index gained an additional 19.42% in the six months to April 30, 2006. In U.S. Dollar terms, the performance of the TOPIX Index was 20.21%. The TOPIX Index continued its rising trend from the middle of 2005 until mid-January 2006, moved up and down in January and February, and moved up a little further during March and April. The rise was quite fast in the latter half of 2005, when the TOPIX Index advanced 40.1% over a six-month period. A sharp decline in January, starting with the "Live-door Shock", appears to have occurred at a good time, as the market adjusted itself after the sudden, sharp rise. The TOPIX Index stood at 1177.20 at the end of June 2005, at 1444.73 by the end of October, and rose to 1649.76 by the end of December 2005. The Index dipped back to 1574.67 on January 18, 2006, but stayed in a range between roughly 1600 and 1700 through the end of March. The TOPIX reached its highest point of the year on April 7, 2006, hitting 1783.72, and finished April at a level of 1716.43.

The market experienced heavy trading volume, and renewed the record for the largest transaction value, during January 2006, as more than (Y)30 trillion worth of stocks traded on the TSE 1st section. Individual investors became very active participants in the stock market, while domestic institutions, particularly trust banks, were consistent sellers of stocks over the period. Small-cap stocks, which had led the market in the last months of 2005, turned into poor performers in 2006 after the Livedoor Shock hit the market. Reflecting the record trading volume levels, the securities brokerage sector was the best performer over the six months ended April 30, 2006, posting a 45.1% return. The non-ferrous metals sector performed second best with a 38.4% gain, partially reflecting the strong advance in precious metal prices. The real estate sector performed third, with a 34.7% return. Real estate stocks performed well with signs of a bottoming-out of land prices in Japan after 15 years of decline. Some of the top performing sectors during earlier periods turned out to be laggards this time around. The shipping sector, which had performed well in previous months, turned out to be the worst-performing sector this period with a return of -1.0%. The cargo-shipping charge market declined over the period, after an extremely fast rise earlier on. The telecommunication carriers sector ended the period flat, ranking second worst in performance, as the fierce competition expected among incumbent operators and new entrants kept investors' expectations low. The third worst performing sector was oil & coal, up 2.5%, which had also been a strong performer in the previous period.

The TOPIX Index stood at 1445 at the end of October and rose along a straight line to reach almost 1700 by early January 2006. Technology stocks led the market in November, while smaller stocks performed extremely well in December. In January, the TOPIX Index recorded its ninth consecutive positive monthly return. In the middle of the month, there was a sudden and sizable dip in the indices, but the major indices rebounded during the latter half of the month to finish with positive returns. With high volatility, the total trade value on the TSE 1st section reached its highest level in history, with more than (Y)31 trillion (counting one-way trades) worth of stocks traded in January. The TSE suffered from system troubles attempting to handle the increased trading volume, and the Exchange shortened its daily trading hours. The Livedoor Shock affected the market significantly, as Livedoor is a young company with various interests in internet-related businesses. Prosecutors raided the company on January 17th for alleged market manipulation and accounting fraud. Four executives of Livedoor, including the CEO and CFO (who have both recently resigned), have been arrested. Allegedly, Livedoor executives manipulated publicly-announced accounting data and made deceptive statements regarding past acquisitions and equity issuances while the company experienced a phase of rapid expansion via a series of acquisitions. With the popularity of the company's former President, Livedoor was a favorite of some individual investors. As the share price of Livedoor took a nose dive, from (Y)696 on January 16th to (Y)119 on January 26th, on limited trading volume, the seemingly excessive heat among investors towards internet-related stocks cooled down. Livedoor's share price, which stood at (Y)107 at the end of January, had dropped to (Y)94 by the time the shares were delisted on April 13th.

Overall, however, results announced by Japanese companies for the quarter ended December 31, 2005 were generally fine. Matsushita, Toyota and Mazda all announced results and indications that were above market expectations. Many other companies met expectations, but the market did not have much of a reaction to the good news. Instead, the share prices of companies that reported negative surprises, including shipping companies Nippon Yusen and Mitsui OSK, sank quickly. Constant selling pressure from domestic financial institutions, together with sizable sell-offs by individuals in the first week of February and by non-residents in the second week, appears to have led the market downward in the early part of February. The quick report of Gross Domestic Product ("GDP") for the quarter ended December 31, 2005 was a 4.2% year-on-year ("YoY") gain, above market expectations. The turning point came on March 9th, when the Bank of Japan announced that it would end "quantitative easing" to effectively cease maintaining Japan's extremely high money supply level. With the news, the yield on the 10-year Japanese government bond ("JGB") rose. After ending February at 1.60%, the 10-year JGB yield rose to 1.78% by the end of March, and jumped to almost 2% by the middle of April, ending the month at 1.93%. Land price statistics, announced in late March, showed that land prices were bottoming-out after 15 years of decline. The share prices of major real estate operators, including Mitsubishi Real Estate, Mitsui Fudosan and Sumitomo Real Estate, advanced strongly. Separately, prices returned to an up-trend in April.

Concerns over the Chinese economy drew investors' attention once again in April over China's interest rate increase. The Japanese Yen and other currencies strengthened against the U.S. Dollar as the market expected a slow-down or an end to interest rate hikes in the United States. The Japanese Yen, which was trading at around (Y)110/US$ at the end of August 2005, quickly weakened to (Y)121/US$ by early December and then strengthened in January 2006. In February and March, the Yen traded around (Y)116-(Y)118/US$, before strengthening again to end April at (Y)113.81/US$. Macro-economic statistics announced throughout the period were generally healthy and positive, and nationwide Consumer Price Index ("CPI") figures were positive for four successive months through March. Retail sales statistics have been positive and industrial production has remained strong. Machinery orders have also generally showed a positive trend. Also, the country's unemployment rate declined to 4.1% in March. Earnings announcements for the quarter ended March 31, 2006, and for the year to March, have generally been in-line with expectations thus far. Canon announced better-than-expected results, helped by improved office equipment sales and the favorable currency trend. Honda shares rose 5% after the company announced good results and a dividend increase. Consumer finance companies and credit card operators have performed poorly in 2006, as rising interest rates were interpreted as a negative by investors. News of the possible introduction of a new law to lower maximum interest charges, resulting from the excessive conduct by some consumer finance companies to urge repayment, also had an adverse effect.

Outlook

In conclusion, the Japanese economy seems to have recovered to a normal state, and has improved significantly after the long-lasting deterioration of the past two years. The start of the economic recovery was export driven, after which industrial activities began to improve. In the latter half of 2005, we began to see signs of a recovery in personal consumption, with retailers reporting improved sales statistics. In addition, the country's major banks successfully cleared most of their bad debt in 2005. Consumer prices also finally turned positive from the end of 2005. In March 2006, land prices in the central cities rebounded and showed signs of recovery in other statistical areas. The stock market advanced rapidly in the latter half of 2005, as if it was beginning to incorporate the country's economic recovery. However, after its quick rise at the end of 2005, the market has moved largely sideways thus far in

We hold an optimistic view of the stock market in the long run because the Japanese economy has finally escaped from its long slump and appears likely to remain healthy. In the short-term, as most domestic factors have already turned positive and/or neutral to the stock market, the market might require some more time to adjust after its fast rise of the recent past. For the moment, any potential negative effects on the market would seem to come from external factors, including the economic states of Japan's major economic partners and/or unexpected movements in currencies, commodities, energy, etc.

In general, Japanese companies appear to be continuing their healthy operations, with further improvements in profits expected to come in the future. Although indications by companies have not been as forthcoming as some investors had expected, they are a comfortable improvement from the period which has just concluded.

After a period of some more temporary adjustments, we expect the Japanese stock market to yield healthy returns.

Fund Performance

During the six months ended April 30, 2006, the Fund's market price on the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE") ranged from a low of $8.31 per share on February 17, 2006 to a high of $10.12 on November 28, 2005. The Fund's NYSE market price closed at $8.99 per share on April 30, 2006.

The NYSE market price in relation to the Fund's net asset value per share during the six months ended April 30, 2006, ranged from a high discount of 3.33% on April 28, 2006 to a high premium of 24.69% on November 24, 2005, and ended the period at a discount of 3.33%.

Organization and Significant Accounting Policies

The Japan Equity Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") was incorporated in Maryland on July 12, 1990 under its former name "The Japan Emerging Equity Fund, Inc." and commenced operations on July 24, 1992. It is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission as a closed-end, diversified management investment company.

The following significant accounting policies are in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States of America for investment companies. Such policies are consistently followed by the Fund in the preparation of its financial statements. The preparation of financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Actual reporting results could differ from those estimates.

Valuation of Investments--Securities which are listed on the Tokyo Stock Exchange or listed on the over-the-counter market in Japan or listed on other exchanges in Japan and for which market quotations are readily available are valued at the last reported sales price available to the Fund at the close of business on the day the securities are being valued or, lacking any such sales, at the last available bid price. In instances where quotations are not readily available or where the price as determined by the above procedures is deemed not to represent fair market value, fair value will be determined in such manner as the Board of Directors (the "Board") may prescribe. Short-term investments having a maturity of 60 days or less are valued at amortized cost, except where the Board determines that such valuation does not represent the fair value of the investment. All other securities and assets are valued at fair value as determined in good faith by, or under the direction of, the Board.

Foreign Currency Translation--The books and records of the Fund are maintained in U.S. dollars as follows: (1) the foreign currency market value of investment securities and other assets and liabilities stated in Japanese yen are translated at the exchange rates prevailing at the end of the period; and (2) purchases, sales, income and expenses are translated at the rate of exchange prevailing on the respective dates of such transactions. The resulting exchange gains and losses are included in the Statement of Operations. The Fund does not isolate the effect of fluctuations in foreign exchange rates from the effect of fluctuations in the market price of securities.

Tax Status--The Fund intends to continue to distribute substantially all of its taxable income and to comply with the minimum distribution and other requirements of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies. Accordingly, no provision for federal income or excise taxes is required.

The Fund is not subject to any Japanese income, capital gains or other taxes except for withholding taxes on certain income, generally imposed at rates of 7% on interest and dividends, paid to the Fund by Japanese corporations.

Investment Transactions and Investment Income--Investment transactions are recorded on the trade date (the date upon which the order to buy or sell is executed). Realized and unrealized gains and losses from security and foreign currency transactions are calculated on the identified cost basis. Dividend income and corporate actions are recorded generally on the ex-date, except for certain dividends and corporate actions from Japanese securities which may be recorded after the ex-date, as soon as the Fund acquires information regarding such dividends or corporate actions. Interest income is recorded on an accrual basis.

Notes to Financial Statements

Dividends and Distributions to Shareholders--The Fund records dividends and distributions payable to its shareholders on the ex-dividend date. The amount of dividends and distributions from net investment income and net realized capital gains are determined in accordance with federal income tax regulations, which may differ from generally accepted accounting principles. These book basis/tax basis differences are either considered temporary or permanent in nature. To the extent these differences are permanent in nature, such amounts are reclassified within the capital accounts based on their federal tax basis treatment; temporary differences do not require reclassifications. Dividends and distributions which exceed net investment income and net realized capital gains for tax purposes are reported as distributions of paid-in-capital.

Investment Manager and Investment Adviser

The Fund has an Investment Management Agreement with Daiwa SB Investments (U.S.A.) Ltd. (the "Manager"). Daiwa SB Investments Ltd. ("DSBI" or the "Adviser"), an affiliate of the Manager, acts as the Fund's investment adviser pursuant to an Investment Advisory Agreement between the Manager and DSBI. For such investment services, the Fund is obligated to pay the Manager a monthly fee at an annual rate of 0.60% of the first $20 million, 0.40% of the next $30 million and 0.20% of the excess over $50 million of the Fund's average weekly net assets, of which fee 60% is paid by the Manager to DSBI. In addition, the Fund has agreed to reimburse the Manager and the Adviser for all out-of-pocket expenses related to the Fund. For the six months ended April 30, 2006, no out-of-pocket expenses were paid to the Manager or Adviser.

At April 30, 2006, the Fund owed $33,454 to the Manager.

In addition, as permitted by the Administration Agreement, the Fund reimburses the Administrator for its out-of-pocket expenses related to the Fund.
