	LM	I am really excited about this new proposal what we re put on the table for Arcelor. I think this is a very compelling proposal which addresses all the key issues. We have addressed the issue of the value, we have addressed the issue of corporate donors [?] and of course no one has questioned industrial logic of this transaction.

Everyone believes in the consolidation of the steel industry and they see a strong industrial logic in this transaction. So this is not we, there s no question there. And the value has been questioned, we have answered the value question by massive change, and corporate donors has also been questioned, here the family has agreed to value the shareholding below 50%, down to 45%. That means we have made lot of progress in corporate donors, we have made lot of progress in value, so this is the most compelling transaction for Arcelor and this is the most unique transaction for the steel industry. The steel industry need this kind of consolidation for the future. Arcelor shareholders have gained only so much because since we announced this transaction and combination of these two companies offer more fortunate for them.
